OXFORD PAPER CO. GIVES EMPLOYEES INCREASE

It has been announced that the plant of the Oxford Paper Co., that a wage increase of 10 per cent. will go into effect on May 1st. This increase affects all the employees of the various holdings of the Oxford Paper Co. which include the Oxford Mill, the Maine Contract Paper Co., and the Rumford Falls Paper Co. 1923 employees benefitting by the decision. The present payrolls of the above three plants is about $3,000,000, and the increase will mean $300,000 additional per year. Similar announcements have been made by the Rumford Falls Light & Water Co. and the Rumford Falls Realty Co., 33 employees being in line for a 10 per cent. increase. A week or so ago the International Paper Co. granted an 8 per cent. increase to their employees, meaning an aggregate increase in the pay roll of this mill of $75,000 and this all means that the pay rolls of the mills and other industries who have granted increases will be about $450,000 more per year than they are now. Not only are the announcements of the increases of great importance, but also the announcement that the Oxford Paper Co. will expend about one million dollars on additions to their mill. By this work it is stated that at least 175 more men will be added to the pay rolls of the company, which will bring the number of men employed by this one mill alone to about 1800. The Maine Contract Paper Co., which has been operating on two shifts, is about to change to three hour shifts, and this will require the employment of from 25 to 35 more men. No Rumford is coming in for its share of good fortune in steady and satisfactory employment and continued prosperity.

CHAPMAN CONCERT

BIG SUCCESS

Prof. Wm. H. Chapman and his artists are receiving much praise on their tour and we give below some clippings from papers from different parts of the State where they have appeared. The Opera House was well filled with an enthusiastic audience for the Chapman concert, on Tuesday evening, April 17, under the auspices of the Belfast Teachers' club. Lola Lovinson, the world renowned violinist, was really great, and his every appearance opens the stage was greeted with applause. He gets a wonderful tone from his violin, and his technique is masterly in every way.

Miss Lettice Howell, the soprano, was delightful, having a rich, clear voice of great range and flexibility, and much personal beauty. She sang a great variety of songs, and clearly showed her ability as an actress in several. She has youth and charm, besides her wonderful voice.

Mr. Chapman at the piano covered himself with glory, as he always does. He is a wonderful accompanist, and it is a delight to watch as well as to hear him. The entire program was changed considerably from what was planned, but it was enjoyable from start to finish, and the audience showed its appreciation in a most enthusiastic manner.

The last number on the program was a group of songs done by Miss Howell in a wonderful Spanish costume of orange and black, covered with black lace. In her hair and at her waist were red roses, and she carried a huge black fan. She sang delightfully, Mr. Lovinson playing a solo obligato for the last number.

Mr. Chapman promised that he would produce the opera Faust at Lewiston, with the same artists, scenery, costumes, etc., that will be used in Portland and Bangor, provided an advance subscription list of at least $5,000, to defray expenses, can be obtained by the first of May. A general committee, consisting of the presidents and secretaries of the two clubs, was appointed to have charge of the subscription. Mr. A. J. Foster, supervisor of work in the A. J. Foster public school, was appointed to have charge of organizing a chorus in the two clubs to sing at the festival, to answer to a committee later.

Mr. Chapman's concert tomorrow night makes an appeal to every lover of good music. The Concert Committee hopes the talented and indefatigable director to hold the deserved compliment of a large audience. There is only one Chapman—he is unique—and Miss Howell never looks upon his equal. Let us turn upon him while we may our most friendly and admiring attentions and give him the reward of appreciative applause. He can in the field of music have deserved it more.

Director William H. Chapman of the Maine Musical Festival was in town Tuesday and was as enthusiastic as ever over the prospects for the wonderful festival next fall. Mr. Chapman is an audience. He never disappoints.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR RUMFORD

Several prominent Rumford business and professional men have organized a new company for the manufacture of Nalke, an antiseptic germicide, which has been tried out in Rumford and vicinity with very satisfactory results. The officers of the company, which is chartered under the trust agreement are: President, Dr. J. Abbott Nile of Rumford; vice president, William J. Leader, formerly of this town but lately in the advertising business in New York. The treasurer has not yet been announced. The present board of Trustees is as follows: George G. Brown, J. Abbott Nile, William J. Leader and Ralph T. Parker all of Rumford, and Major E. A. Allen and L. M. Dickey White of Portland. According to one of the Trustees Nalke is a highly concentrated Carrel-Dakin solution and was originated by two scientists of the Rockefeller foundation. It was used in the late war and on account of its unusual strength it saved thousands of soldiers from dying or becoming crippled for life. It was the only known antiseptic that would destroy the germs which filled the wounds of the boys. But the Carrel-Dakin solution was unstable and would disintegrate in a few hours, making it necessary to have it fresh for use. Major E. A. Allen has discovered a way to stabilize the Carrel-Dakin solution, thereby making it possible to bottle and sell commercially. The product has been named Nalke. The company plans on building some talk of building such in Rumford, a factory in a short time, and there is The company have leased offices in Portland, and at present maintains a laboratory in South Portland. Plans are under way for an extensive advertising campaign which will take in at first the New England States, and gradually increase the territory until the entire United States is covered.

always brimming over with enthusiasm and his eternal optimism has been a great factor in the extraordinary success that has accompanied the festival over a long period of years. There are various varieties of opinion but that which Mr. Chapman carries around with him is fortunately always born out by the production. Mr. Chapman always manages to entirely satisfy the festival audience. He never disappoints.

FOREST PROTECTION WEEK AND ARBOR DAY—1923.

By the President of the United States of America.—A Proclamation.

Whereas, the preservation of our forests, Federal, State, and private, is essential to our industrial and commercial life, to our strength as a nation, and to our individual well-being, and

Whereas, forest fires, which are largely the result of carelessness or thoughtlessness, continue to do great damage, threatening to deplete and reduce our forests to the point at which they can no longer serve the nation adequately as a source of timber supply or for watershed protection and recreation, and

Whereas, the annual observance of Arbor Day in the States, and the interest in its prevention which has resulted from Forest Protection Week heretofore, have done much to awaken the people to the importance both of planting trees and of perpetuating the forests that are already established.

Therefore, I, Warren G. Harding, President of the United States, do urge upon the Governors of the various States to designate and set apart the week of April 22-28, 1923, as Forest Protection Week, and wherever practicable and not in conflict with State law or accepted custom, to make Arbor Day fall within the same week, and to urge citizens, teachers, officers of public instruction, commercial and other associations, and the press to unite in thought and effort for the preservation of the nation's forest resources by conducting appropriate exercises and programs and by publishing information pertaining to the ways from forest fires and ways of preventing or reducing such losses, in order that our forests may be conserved for the indispensable service of mankind.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this 21st day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and forty-seventh.

Warren G. Harding
By the President:
Charles E. Hughes
Secretary of State.

THE J. E. JONES LETTER

A "Scoop" on William Allen White
William Allen White, the famous Emporia editor, opened the floor of public discussion in Washington of things seen and observed while a member of the party just returned on the steamer Mauretania which was one of the ships sent out by the American Express Company filled with "million dollar tourists." Mr. White in his Washington address to a big group of people assembled under the auspices of the Popular Government League, declared that the people who won the world war were the women, and labor. He pictured the European countries as still "on fire," with most of them doing little toward getting out the fire company. He found most all of Europe anxious to do something towards preventing a future war, which he believes will surely occur unless the United States finds a way to furnish a "fire company" to extinguish the smoldering European blaze.

With the mind of a true reporter Mr. White embellishes the existing facts and analyzes the European situation. He speaks of the part played by the United States in the aftermath of the war as "a failure," and in Europe the existing situation is everywhere "a burning issue," filled with all the rancor of political prejudice. In reply to the question as to what can be done about it, all the Kansas editor furnishes as his own idea a great international conference, with only a few politicians in it, and made up from people whose interests are wholly selfish, recruited from all walks of life—from social workers and philosophers, to people of the type of his recent shipmate, Judge Gary of the Steel Corporation. He would not permit the conference to adjourn for at least nine months and his only instruction would be: Do something!

William Allen White talks convincingly. He will likely have a good deal to say during the coming months that is of material interest. The above is a "scoop" on whatever he may write and sell through newspaper syndicates.

The D. A. R. Speaks
The Daughters of the American Revolution have been enjoying their annual "revolution" in the National Capital. This event brings to Washington the most self-satisfied group of women that annually honors the city with its presence. Being satisfied with the own intense loyalty and honesty of purpose they—us usual, hastened at the very beginning of their exercises, to condemn the "disloyalty" of great groups of citizens who are as honestly progressive and loyal in their views about popular government as the D. A. R. are honestly conservative and reactionary. The net result is that the D. A. R. create a great deal of enthusiasm among "professional patriots," and intense weariness among the anti-militarists, and the ultra radicals. The D. A. R. is composed of the finest type of American women, and Washington always stretches forth its open arms to welcome them. The conventions taken as a whole are very interesting, but the proceedings are nearly always weakened by the "statesmanship" of the body, which "settles" all national issues. This has resulted in bringing out local references to the convention as the "daughters annual row," and the "D. A. R. spree."

A War on Restricted Immigration
America is facing a shortage of labor, due principally to the laws restricting immigration, which the country's greatest capitalists of industry. They point out the recent increase in wages of thousands of workers in the steel industry was due to this shortage of labor. One would almost think they were arguing the case of organized labor when they admit that they want the immigration laws amended to admit an increase of immigration. Anticily as children they admit that they want to keep wages from going higher.

One might suppose that the employers could oppose the immigration law more effectively. Just how they expect to get a Congressman to vote their way on that kind of argument is a puzzle.

The steel trust has 211,001 employees, and their average earnings in 1922 amounted to $1,201 a year each. The head of the steel corporation says that if immigration was not checked that the per capita wage would be lower and the dividends to stockholders would be greater. Doubtless Judge Gary is stating facts. Just as surely it is "dollar" to say that he has made an "argument" in support of his contention.

A special town meeting is to be held at the Municipal building on Monday, April 30th, at 10 A. M. at which time articles relating to the streets and sidewalks and appropriations for the same are to be taken up. It will be remembered that appropriations for these purposes were deferred at the annual town meeting, and a committee appointed to draft special articles in relation to the said streets and sidewalks. This committee consisted of Judge A. E. Stearns, chairman; C. A. Miker, F. W. Davis, O. J. Gonyea, and J. H. Martin. This committee have reported on the articles as prepared by them.

An increase in wages for the 750 employees of the local mill of the International Paper Co. took effect on April 15th. The reason stated for the increase is on account of the increased costs of living, and also in appreciation of the loyalty of the employees.

Work has already started here by the Maine Central Railroad Company, on the construction of a $150,000 car repair shop. The building will be 110x220 and will be situated directly opposite the Clark Foundry. The new Maine Central building is a contract job, the contract having been let to the Rumney Construction Co. of Portland. It is not definitely known just now, how long a time it will take for construction, but it is thought that it will be completed in the early fall. When finished it will mean the employment of fully twice the number of men now employed in that particular department. Almost double the repair work now carried on will be done, and whereas this work is now done out-of-doors, it will, in the future be done in the steam heated and modern equipped building.

It is hoped that the employees of the Maine Central Paper Co. are soon to change from the eleven and thirteen hour shifts, which they are at present working, to three eight hour shift tours, similar to the Oxford Paper Company plan.

It is rumored that the Oxford Paper Company are contemplating the installation of a new paper machine of the larger type. If this is so, work will probably be started in the near future, as it would take about four months to install the machine, and be ready to commence operation. Such a machine, together with the expense of installing, is said to cost in the vicinity of $300,000. A new trestle would be constructed for the purpose of carrying pulp wood to the mill, and the construction is thought to have been let to James H. Kerr of Rumford.

Coleman O'Toole, 35 years of age, dropped dead outside of the Times Office of the Oxford Paper Co. last Thursday noon. The man, who had not been at work for the past three days, had been down to get his pay check, and although no particular attention was paid to him, he seemed to be in good health. He walked a few steps from the office door, when he was seen to stagger and fall. He was not seen to move after the fall, and when he was found, he was dead. He was found by a patrolman, who called a doctor, who pronounced him dead.

BOSTON MARKET REVIEW

For Week Ending April 21, 1923.

Prepared by U. S. Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates

Fruit and Vegetable Supplies of potatoes have increased during the week but prices have not changed materially as Maine offerings are decreasing. Closing prices for the week are 12.00-12.50 per cwt. on sacked No. 1 Green Mountain, and 12.00-12.50 per 100 lbs. on sacked No. 1. The old cabbage season is over and supplies of old cabbages are much heavier and the market has gradually weakened in spite of a moderate demand. Closing prices for the week being 4.00-4.50 per barrel crate according to quality. On South Carolina cabbages, the market is in a firm position and the market is in a firm position. Florida celery and tomato supplies are heavy but much stock is being moved to other markets. Good tomatoes are in demand and selling at 12.50-13.50 per 100 lbs. in bulk. Carrots are in heavy supply and the market has declined to a range of 12.00-12.50 per 100 lbs. according to quality. Native Michigan cucumbers are firm and selling higher than a week ago. Pumpkins are also higher, the closing prices ranging from 11.75-12.25 with a few as high as 12.50 per box. Other commodities are not materially changed in price. Boxes of A. 2 1/2 Radishes sold at 12.00-12.50 with a few at 12.75.

Dairy & Poultry Products: Dressed poultry market rather quiet and trading dull. Supplies of fresh killed poultry are much lighter. Fresh killed fowl in fair demand, but chickens moving very slowly as there is practically no change in prices. Butter market is weak with an unsettled undertone. Prices declined slightly throughout the week. Trading has been quiet as buyers are holding off in anticipation of further declines. Northern butter is arriving in more quantities, but quality remains very irregular. Western butter, 44-45c. Eggs: Egg market rules steady to firm with trading rather limited. Receivers in some cases are free sellers while others are inclined to hold back their offerings for higher prices. Many lots on the market are being held off as the market is not strong and higher than the buyers' ideas of value. There has been a fair demand for ordinary firsts which could be bought around 21-22c but asking prices as a rule were higher than this. Eggs 22-23c; extra firsts 23-24c; extra 24-25c; second 25-26c; storage packed extra 25-26c; storage packed extra 25-26c; fancy brown up to 27c.

The Massachusetts Department of public utilities took issue with the Interstate Commerce Commission, and went on record daily against the reduction in passenger fares recently ordered by the federal body. The local department holds that the New England south are in such a weak position financially that a reduction in fares would be a great handicap. Yet the railroad have already gone to the courts to overturn the I. C. C. ruling so that the difference of opinion between it and the Massachusetts body will probably not be settled until the courts have decided the other case.

Overruling the contentions of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company that all its employees' liability act, E. T. Buckingham, compensation under the Connecticut compensation act to Liza Green, widow of Robert Green of Bridgeport, who was killed by a train in the Bridgeport, Ct. freight yards May 11, 1922. Commissioner Buckingham, in awarding compensation to the widow at the rate of $18.47 a week for 312 weeks, urged that the New Haven railroad follow the example of the Pennsylvania railroad in accepting the state compensation laws rather than the federal law, based on interstate commerce laws.

Here's a Boston doctor with a great name and many distinctions in the medical profession who says that sickness is a disgrace; that everybody ill should be ashamed of themselves; that it is possible for each and every one of us to live out our natural lives 100 per cent well, both mentally and physically. But Dr. John P. Sutherland, dean of the Boston University School of Medicine for 21 years, himself in his 73rd year, who has written on medical subjects, lectured and practiced medicine for more than twenty years and who now works at whitened speed a matter of 12 to 15 hours a day, always declares, "It is a little secrets that there should be with us when we startling to say one about keeping well permanently. The secret of long life and of a healthy life is a strict and absolute adherence to those foods which nature intended for human consumption, and those foods only, an adequate amount of exercise and enough sleep in all circumstances."

RESULTS OF IMPROVED POTATO SEED CAMPAIGN

County Agent E. B. Dodge, Penobscot.

The importance of good seed is borne out by potato cost accounts conducted in Maine, outside of Aroostook, last year which showed the average production on 42 farms to be 54 barrels per acre, while the average production on the 16 improved potato seed plots in Penobscot county showed an average yield of 83 bushels per acre.

Because of the importance of good seed to the potato grower a definite program for increasing the quality of seed potatoes used in Maine has been drawn up by the extension department.

There are eight points that should be considered by any man who wants to come in on the improved seed game. They are:

1, the seed started with should be of known purity; 2, seed should be treated with corrosive sublimate; 3, potatoes located at least 200 feet from any others, and as much farther as possible; 4, the field should not have been planted to potatoes for two years, and soil ground should be given the preference; 5, spraying should be done thoroughly with properly mixed Bordeaux; 6, roguing, which calls for at least two thorough inspections of the potato fields and the removal of all weak and diseased hills; 7, hill selection, which may help develop a uniform type; 8, the size of the seed plot is important as enough seed should be produced to plant with that variety the entire acreage desired.

Observance of these eight points is requested of the men conducting good seed plots. The county agents in the various counties are glad to cooperate with one or two of the potato growers in each of the potato towns to assist in roguing and general supervision of the work.

Other men who are interested should follow this plan and attend roguing demonstrations in their towns and there is no reason why they cannot become acquainted with the diseases and do the roguing on their own farms.

In Penobscot county last year 10 men started seed plots, with the Prince Edward Island strain of Green Mountain, on a total of 11.5 acres. These 10 plots produced 1021 barrels, or 88 barrels per acre. This is 34 barrels more per acre than the average of the 42 farms previously mentioned.

We cannot guarantee that the improved potato seed plot method will be able to hold the percentage of disease at one or two per cent indefinitely, but it will enable us to retain the quality of our seed much longer than under the old haphazard method.

Our next step is to get this seed of high quality into general distribution and much help can be rendered by potato growers. We have two men in this county who have already agreed to put out improved potato seed on a neighboring town on a fall payment plan. Several other men prompted by the same motive sold from their fields practically their entire crop last year at $1.00 a bushel, well over in all probability 1923 will be enough of this improved seed produced in Penobscot county to furnish seed for its entire acreage of potatoes in the county in 1924. This is something that has never happened before, and is a good testament of the interest which Penobscot county farmers have in good seed.

THE FELLOW THAT DROPT THE MATCH

Most any body on woodcraft has a tale to tell of how he lost a match.

But no one of them tells how to get it out when lost. This is the worst thing to have, a fire of knowledge in the pocket and not a match to light it.

Let every boy get a match every time they are out. Every boy with a match can destroy more forest fires than the United States Forest Commission can prevent in any summer. As the poet truly said:

"He dropt the match when he lit his cigar & it fell in a bunch of grass."

And then he went on to smoke his cigar in the thickest woods.

A blaze shot upward, the wind it lit, & the fire spread and over the patch, & the forest fire began to burn.

Was this the fellow that dropt the match?

THE FIRE FOOL.

(With apologies to Heyward Kipling) A fool there was and he flung a match, Knew as you and I, Carelessly down on a sun-dried patch, Giving no heed that a fire might catch And spread to the timber with quick dispatch, Knew as you and I.

The fool passed on with wondering look, Knew as you and I, He couldn't explain the fire that took The forest away, and dried the brook, And left the region a place forsook, He was a fool—that's why.

CONSTIPATION OFTEN POISONS THE SYSTEM NATURE HAS PROVED RELIEF

For every violation of her laws Nature exacts a penalty; but she also has wisely provided relief, especially for the ailments of the human system. Since constipation is the most common of ailments, Nature endowed certain herbs, seeds, barks and leaves with laxative properties. Early settlers, dependent entirely upon Nature, used the extracts from these plants to relieve and correct constipated conditions.

Over seventy years ago, an old-fashioned Maine country doctor who didn't believe in harsh cathartics originated a prescription known as Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative, which since has given relief to many thousands of constipated sufferers.

The herbs used in its preparation are imported and of strictly pure quality; it helps to correct the cause naturally and relieve its attendant evils; it purifies the bowels as it cleanses.

Here is one of the thousands of cases where Dr. True's Elixir has helped. "As you have been a Godsend to me, that is a friend in need is a friend indeed," I will write and tell you about the value of your medicine—Dr. True's Elixir; 40c—60c—$1.20.

believe me, it helped me. I eat every thing that comes along; no more diet. I even tried raw onions for a test. Is that not such after nine long years of only milk and eggs?"—Mrs. J. E. (Nuttley, N. J.)

To have a suitable laxative, one which she knows will prove effective, he easy to take and guaranteed pure, Mrs. Peter Velma of North Charleston, S. C., sent up North. She says: "I have great faith in Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative and Warm Expeller, and have been using it for over ten years. I send for it to my old home at Oxford, Me."

A well-known New Yorker writes: "While visiting in historic old Plymouth (Mass.), my family became constipated with your Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative and Warm Expeller. It does all you claim for it in aiding digestion and relieving insomnia and constipation. Please ship me six large size bottles, for mother is in need of it."—Wm. L. Ralph.

Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative, was first a Maine medicine, then New England, now International.

DRAINING PROBLEMS AND HOW TO MEET THEM

R. N. Atherton, County Agent, Androscoggin-Bagadoc.

Surplus water should be removed to make the soil more open or porous. If water is allowed to stand on the surface the natural air movement in the soil is stopped, oxygen shut off and plants soon die. A wet soil is always a cold soil so drainage is a necessity in order to increase soil warmth. Wet places on the farm are often comparatively level and can be easily worked if the surplus water is removed. Hence these places are an economic waste.

There are three chief methods of drainage: open ditch, tiling, and well or sink hole. Of these three the open ditch method is the most economical on the average farm. Tiling is adapted to larger areas, is expensive but permanent and requires much labor. From an economic standpoint this is not a good year to invest money in this way.

Dynamite can generally be used effectively and economically under conditions where dredging is impracticable, where the ground is too wet for team work and hand labor too costly. On nearly every farm there are swampy places which make drainage a rule a small job. Lateral ditches may be necessary to completely drain an area to which a main channel has already been used or in clearing out whole ditches and in straightening out crooked channels. For best results dynamite should be used in places where there is a lot of moisture. It does not work well in a dry, fine sand or dry, heavy clay.

Ditching with dynamite depends upon a simultaneous explosion of a series of uniform charges, usually of equal depth and distance apart. One charge will give a hole in the ground. A series of charges will give a number of ragged holes. Dynamite fired in the ground exerts a cone-shaped pressure and when the charges are placed near enough together will remove everything above them. For this purpose what is known as straight nitroglycerin dynamite 50 or 60 per cent is used. Ammonia or gelatin dynamites are not adapted for ditching.

Ditches may be made in this manner from four to twenty feet wide and from two and one-half to ten feet deep. It is a very quick method of ditching, as the chief time and labor consists in making the holes and loading.

There are two chief methods followed in ditching, electric and propagated. The second method is more commercially used. It means simply a row of charges, fired by a single primer in the center of the row. The charges are placed near enough so that the force from one fires the next. A good ditching crew consists of a blaster and four helpers. The first job is to run a line of stakes or markers so as to make the ditch as straight as possible. The next is to clear it by cutting tall grass, removing standing trees and fences. It helps materially if the soil can be cut on each side of the proposed ditch to a depth of six or eight inches. The distance between these lines of cutting should be four to six feet. Because soil conditions are so irregular it is necessary to fire one or more test shots in order to determine required depth and distance apart of charges. Dynamite should be loaded down to within six or twelve inches of a required depth of the ditch. Put a primer in about the center charge. It is better to use a battery than a fuse.

In the last three years, 2425 yards have been ditched in Androscoggin and Bagadoc at an average cost of $3.00 per yard.

The Federal Highway Act requires that the roads within, partly within, or adjacent to the National Forests be designated either as Forest Highways or Forest Development Roads. Forest Highways are those of primary importance to the States, counties and communities, and include all such roads that are parts of the State highway system. Forest Development Roads are those of primary importance to the National Forests for administration, protection, and utilization. The Forest Highway system in any State must be approved by the State Highway Commission and by the Secretary of Agriculture. The Forest Development Road system is approved by the Secretary of the Federal Forest Service. Fifty per cent, but not to exceed $10,000 of the appropriation for any one year must be devoted to the Forest Development roads.

ALBANY
The Town House school opened, Monday, April 16th, with twelve scholars, and the same teacher, Annie Hamilton.

Miss O'Connor has commenced her first term at school, and as yet is the only new pupil.

The children from the Marshall District are conveyed to the Town House by Charles O'Connor.

Arthur O'Connor visited school Tuesday forenoon. The O'Connor children do not attend school here, as they expect to move to Lynchville soon.

Those who recited one play Monday last week are as follows: Ray Andrews, Edith Wilbur, Almond and Helen Becker and Adeline Cummings spent the week end at their respective homes.

L. J. Andrews, Allen Cummings and Albert Cummings have been studying the Town House the past week.

Mrs. Calvin Cummings, who has been very ill, is a little better.

All are much interested in the next contest at school, and have prepared during many afternoons.

George Jackson is ill with pneumonia at Bert Day's, where he boards, and has a trained nurse.

Mrs. Helene Hubler started for New York Wednesday morning. She will work for her brother, John Bacon, in a hotel among the Adirondacks. Mrs. Hubler visited a day or two in Portland with her cousin, Mrs. L. H. Penley, on her way. Her sister, Mrs. Elsie Loppin, went with her.

Robert Young's family are soon to move into the down stairs part of Mrs. Gertrude Alrich's house on Depot street.

Mrs. Herbert Hill is recovering from her recent illness.

Rev. H. F. Alrich has attended the Methodist conference at Bangor.

Miss Alida A. Barrows, assistant director of the social hygiene division, gave a lecture, "The Gift of Life," with moving picture slides at the Baptist church Monday evening.

Mrs. Orpha Ring, who lives with her daughter, Mrs. Willard Farr, is ill.

Miss Rita Ryerson is recovering from tonsillitis at Lewis M. Mann's, where she is staying and attending school.

The sale and entertainment held at George Hall Thursday was very successful. A jolly sale was made of the ice cream, cooked food, candy, aprons and fancy work in the afternoon. In the evening the entertainment, "Shogren's Divorce Case," was nicely presented. Good music was furnished.

Dignity of Business.
It is an utterly low view of business which regards it as only a means of getting a living. A man's business is his part of the world's work, his share of the great activities which render society possible. He may like it or dislike it, but it is work, and, as such, requires application, self-discipline.—Fall Mall Gazette.

Do a Little More Figuring On Paint

How do you usually buy your paint, by the gallon, or by the job? Do you buy it at so much per gallon or so much for doing what you want done? Did you ever figure with a brush, the cost of your painting (instead of doing it with a pencil)? Before you do any more painting, just stop in and let us do a little more figuring on paint. Be prepared to have your eyes opened.

What We Are

For when we look it in the face, it is an artist thought that we cannot prevent our real character from doing its work among men, and what we are, not what we seem, is that which is really influencing others—stop that.

"Hereditary" Idea Foolish

Mental diseases are caused by the same blood constituents that produce soft and hard corns and bunions; and insanity, as well as all other nervous and mental diseases, is no more "hereditary" than are colds and sneezing.—Dr. Moore

THE FORESTS OF AMERICA AND THE RATE OF THEIR DESTRUCTION

When our forefathers first placed foot on American soil, there was present in what is now the United States the finest and most magnificent body of timber that man ever knew. It has been conservatively estimated that the original virgin forest area of the United States was not less than 822 million acres, bearing a stand of something like 5,200 billion board feet of the finest timber. Five thousand two hundred billion feet of timber is a stupendous amount. It is little wonder that our people thought it was inexhaustible. It is little wonder that they were careless with fire and that waste was the order of the day.

Today, we realize that only two-fifths of this original supply remains and that the forest area has been reduced to 50 per cent of the original. Had we used this wealth of timber, it would be bad enough, but to have wasted a large part of it, to have made 31 million acres of barren unproductive waste land out of a once beautiful and useful forest should make every one of us pause and resolve that this ruthless destruction shall not continue.

Eighty-one million acres is an enormous area—in fact, an area nearly as large as the combined area of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. But this is not all. In addition, 314 million acres of potential forest land no longer bears useful timber. And we are increasing this area, not by legitimate use, but by means of forest fires, at the rate of 12 million acres annually. It certainly does not require a great amount of wisdom to make one realize that this cannot continue forever. Something must be done and it must be done quickly.

The United States Forest Service is authorized by law to state that forest fires annually destroy two billion feet of timber or material enough to build a four-room frame house every one hundred feet on both sides of a road extending from New York to Chicago. With four people to a house, these 200,000 or more buildings would provide a home for nearly one-fourth our yearly increase in population—a new city each year the size of Cincinnati, New Orleans, Minneapolis, Kansas City or Seattle. More than 100,000 forest fires have occurred in the United States during the past five years, 80 per cent of which were due to human agencies and therefore preventable. These fires burned over 52,455,000 acres—an area greater than that included within the states of Ohio and Pennsylvania—and destroyed $85,700,000 worth of timber and property.

If this needless waste were stopped and the material thus saved put into houses, the various business interests concerned in building construction, such as lumber dealers, carpenters, masons and supply houses—would benefit to the extent of more than $460,000,000 annually. Bankers and real estate dealers would also profit through the sale of lands and by loans or homes to the extent of an additional $300,000,000. Forest fires are therefore of vital concern, not only to the everyday citizen, but to every business man and laborer.

Forest protection goes hand in hand with national prosperity. Next to food and clothing, wood is the most indispensable product of nature. Without wood, there can be no agriculture, no manufacture, no commerce. Forest fires destroy life and property, impoverish the soil, drive away animal life, cause floods and drought and make waste the playgrounds of the people.

WHY MILK TESTS VARY

Prof. L. M. Dorsey, Department of Animal Industry, U. of M.

The butter-fat test of milk is subject to variations because of some of the following factors: Breed of cow, period of lactation, portion of milk drawn, nervous excitability of the cow, improper sampling of the milk and improper manipulation of the Babcock test.

The four chief dairy breeds, in the order of their milk-fat content, from highest to lowest are: Jersey, Guernsey, Ayrshire and Holstein-Friesian. Within each breed are individual cows whose milk test higher or lower than the breed average.

In general as the lactation period advances the fat test of the cow's milk increases. The milk first drawn from a cow is very much lower in fat content than the last drawn or "stripping."

If a cow has been frightened or is greatly excited it may affect the test of her milk, making it higher or lower than normal. If the milk sample saved for testing is not taken from a well mixed pail or can of milk the test will not be truly representative of the per cent of fat in the milk.

The Babcock test should be correctly performed in order to obtain accurate results.

In connection with the butter-fat test of cream there are a number of factors which tend to bring about differences in cream test from time to time, and some of the factors are not always given the attention that should be given them. They are: Method of separation employed, whether gravity or centrifugal, test of milk separated; speed of separator bowl; bowl out of balance; rate of inflow milk; amount of liquid used to flush bowl; dirty condition of bowl; and manipulation of Babcock test.

If milk is set in pans or deep, small-diametered cans, to allow the cream to rise considerable variation will be found in the tests of the cream. In the centrifugal method of creaming less variation may be expected if conditions are uniformly the same. The following conditions apply to the hand separator.

If the milk varies in test from time to time the cream separated from it will vary in test a per cent for each tenth per cent variation in test.

If the milk is too low in temperature the test of the cream will be higher because the cream rises more sluggishly.

If the speed of the bowl is increased beyond normal the test of the cream will be increased and if speed is below normal the opposite effect is obtained.

When the bowl is out of balance, due to the separator being out of level, the test of the cream is decreased.

The faster the milk flows into the separator the lower the cream will test.

If varying amounts of skimmed milk or water are used to flush the separator bowl after the run, the test of the cream will be affected.

POULTRY RAISING

IN MAINE

Oxford, April 21. One of the chief essentials in profitable poultry raising is culling out the hens that cannot lay eggs enough to pay for their board. Culling is no longer regarded as a task that only an expert poultryman can acquire. In every county in Maine the agent has been giving demonstrations as a part of the agricultural extension work and showing the farmers how easy it is to distinguish a poor producer from a good layer, simply by studying their #### physical characteristics.

Those who attend these demonstrations take an actual part in them and are able to go back to their farms and cull their own flocks. Records compiled by the extension service of the College of Agriculture show that there has been a steady increase in culling each year, that this has been a part of extension work, and that the results have been very gratifying.

In 1922 the county agents and state poultry specialist held public demonstrations of culling on 325 Maine farms. These demonstrations were attended by 3050 persons. The total number of hens handled was 21,324, and 29.4 per cent of them were removed from the flocks as non-productive.

The plan followed is to keep accurate account of the number of eggs laid by the flock during the week preceding the demonstration and of the number held a week afterward, the eggs being kept apart from the rest of the flock so as to keep check on their relative production. The outcome is always convincing, and the unprofitable hens are promptly consigned to slaughter and the poultry market.

The average percent of eggs laid by each flock the week before the demonstration was 34; the per cent laid by the good hens after the culling, 43.3; the per cent of eggs laid by the culls, 5.4.

No flock of hens of any size are all good, and some of them will naturally stop laying earlier than others. An analysis of the results of the demonstrations shows that approximately one-third of the hens stop laying early and they should be removed from the flock and sold, thereby saving cost of feeding. The saving of a single month's feeding of the 3254 hens removed last year in these demonstrations reckoned at 15 cents per hen, amounted to $488.10. It is estimated by O. M. Willard, state poultry demonstrator of the extension service, that there are in the state each year 500,000 low producing hens. If they should all be culled early and sold, it would mean a saving in feed of $75,000.

Reports from 62 farmers who did their own culling last year show that they handled 3752 hens, took out 33 per cent of them as culls and these culls in the test week following the demonstration laid only 3.2 per cent.

Bulletins explaining how to distinguish unprofitable layers will be furnished free by the College of Agriculture, Orono, or on application to a county agent.
